While supplies last

It's nearly time to put our ponds to bed for the winter. Here are some tips to help keep your fish healthy while they hibernate for a few months:

-  Trim off any dead plant material that might hang over into the pond.
-  Skim out any leaves and debris that have fallen into the pond.
-  Put a net over the pond at least until the last of the leaves have fallen. Then you can remove the net.
-  Regularly add cold water bacteria to keep the filters alive, the sludge down and water clarity optimal.
-  When the temperature in the water gets down to 60 degrees, feed winter food and slow the feeding process to every other day or half of the normal amount.
-  When the temperature gets below 50 degrees, stop feeding the fish altogether. They will be fine...we promise!
